Gun Cleaning Solvents Described

Firearm owners may be aware of many gun cleaning “solvents” available on the market, but just what is a solvent? According to an article in Science Direct, a solvent can be defined as “a liquid that has the ability to dissolve, suspend, or extract other materials, without chemical change to the material or solvent.”

When it comes to maintaining firearms, gun cleaning solvents are generally employed just after a session on the shooting range or in the field. Savvy firearm owners recognize the importance of cleaning and lubricating their weapon immediately after use using rods, brushes, pads, solvents and oils.

Gun cleaning solvents are also available as sprays. A concern, however, is that some solvents may not be environmentally friendly. Sprays also hit more than the gun components being cleaned – and that is wasted money.
